NC Parks & Rec. District Strategic Plan - Gary Barth Fiona Gwozdz 7:10 - 8:00	Gary Barth, assisted by Fiona Gwozdz presented the NCPRD Strategic Plan for current projects and maintenance. Gary started with a review of the last 10-15 years of planning and work and provided some history. The below 4 paragraphs copied from the NCPRD website summarizes a portion of Gary’s presentation. The History & Organization of NCPRD: Voters approved the formation of the North Clackamas Parks and Recreation District in 1990 because they saw the need for greater parks and recreation services in the north end of the county. Following a grassroots organization by the people of the north county, voters approved the district by a 53- to 47- percent margin, 54 cents of every $1,000 would be set aside for parks in the community. Furthermore, the District took on maintenance of the existing Milwaukie park property and began construction of the North Clackamas Aquatic Park. Soon thereafter, a citizen task force assisted by Clackamas County planners developed the first District Master Plan. The Master Plan was updated and adopted in 2004 to reflect changes within the District. It guides North Clackamas Parks and Recreation District in providing parks and recreation facilities, programs and services to its residents. In 2006, the City of Happy Valley voted to join NCPRD. This added more than 10,000 residents and a number of additional parks and facilities. NCPRD is now the park service provider for the Cities of Happy Valley and Milwaukie. A small portion of the district is included in the City of Damascus. Headquartered in the Clackamas County Development Services Building in Oregon City, NCPRD is managed by a staff of more than 30 with a nine-member volunteer District Advisory Board of citizens from throughout the district. The NCPRD Board of Directors is the five-member Board of County Commissioners. As a county service district, NCPRD has its own taxing authority. Of note: In the meeting, Gary said the NCPRD has grown and boundaries changed and for this reason as well as others, some of the original master plan promises “were never (able to be) delivered”. But, Gary explained how the NCPRD had ultimately achieved and exceeded those promises. These links will take you to very informative websites with details of existing parks and plans for improvements. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Master Plan http://ncprd.com/planning/master-plan (it was noted that Lynn Fisher has worked diligently on this [and many others] planning committee.) - Current Projects http://ncprd.com/planning/current-projects - Parks by City http://ncprd.com/parks-and-trails/parks-by-city
